INFLUENTIAL INTERIORS EMERGE when vision and practicality transform everyday rooms into spaces that feel polished and livable. For Erika Peck and Nicole Parke, Principal Owners of Edit Design Creative LLC, that influence is rooted in a residential practice specializing in modern transitional design for real-life clients with busy lifestyles. Parke says, “We begin by getting to know our clients, expanding their inspiration and creating a simple visual process so they feel at ease and love the result.” From Chicago homes to a collaboration that grew from furnishings into millwork, stone and lighting, their work balances comfort, durability and momentum.

“When clients trust the process and let us push the envelope, we can transform a home in a way they never imagined,” Peck shares. Guided by instinct and bold yet practical ideas, the studio turns design confidence into enduring resonance.

“A successful design means balancing beauty with comfort, efficiency and durability.”

Creative Comfort

For Edit Design Creative, every project begins with momentum. Initial boards establish an exciting vision, drawing clients beyond the expected while honoring the requirements that make a home work beautifully. “We push clients out of their comfort zone with inspiration that catches their interest from the start,” Peck states. “From there, we source materials and create a clear vision that is refined into a plan that feels imaginative yet grounded.”

Inspired Translation

Ideas arrive from beyond Edit Design Creative’s studio, where architecture, travel and a wide creative field continually shape the firm’s eye. “A beautiful pattern, a gorgeous stone or the design of a door can become the spark for an interior,” Parke enthuses. “That curiosity extends to the digital world, where the work of other talents expands our creative process. The result is inspiration made personal, transformed into details, materials and moments that feel fresh, intentional, layered, expressive and distinctly their own.”

Powerful Partnership

At the heart of Edit Design Creative is a partnership grounded in friendship, trust and the exchange of ideas. “We learn from each other every day and complement each other’s strengths,” the partners share. “Though we’re often aligned in vision, we value the moments when one of us surprises the other, adding nuance and energy to our work. That creative sync brings ease to the process and gives each project the benefit of two perspectives moving as one.”
